

riki_min So how's this for an Instagram story... ? (Stick with me on this one !). These photos are from the town of Montrose in Colorado. You will see three frames of artworks done by Meg Lewer @meglewerartist , an Australian Contemporary Artist. Meg comes from the Central Coast of NSW where I live. We have been following each other for some time and exchanged some DM's, but not yet met... I told Meg in a DM that I was about to leave for Colorado and she informed me that she had entered an online worldwide competition run by PIC, (Partners In Integrated Care) which is a major dental and medical practice incorporating General Medical, Mental Health, Ophthalmology and Health Education in Montrose, Colorado. This competition was for artists who specialise in alcohol inks and she informed me that three of her works had been selected, sent to the USA to PIC. We decided to drive via Montrose on our way back from Utah and I called into this practice... ~ There are Meg's artworks hanging proudly on the walls and one has pride of place in the foyer/ waiting room. One of the staff took me around the practice and there were around forty works all in alcohol inks from all over the world in what is the largest medical practice I have ever seen ! Meg has had experience in a variety of mediums but currently favours alcohol inks. She has completed a number of courses and workshops but describes herself as 'self directed'. 'The subjects vary from week to week but the overriding force involved colour.' She loves its 'subtlety, boldness, restlessness and cheekiness'... Congratulations Meg on these beautiful works adorning this significant practice and it was a pleasure to go there and see your works on the other side of the world from where we both live. 🌍 . I have also included some photos of PIC. ~ Meg, I am looking forward to meeting you when I return... 🌟 ~ So how's that for an Instagram connection ! ! #meglewerartist
